Page by Paige follows Paige, a 15 year old teenager from Virginia, as she adjusts to life in New York with her family. She is an artist who uses her art to express her feelings as she is struggling with her insecurities and figuring out where she belongs in this city. Starting to adjust to city life and her new friends, Paige becomes more confident in herself and starts to discover who she really is.

I would recommend people to read this book because it is an inspirational and relatable book. Teenagers especially are able to relate to this book because just like Paige, many of them are trying to find their place in this world and are navigating through high school. It is an inspiring story for people who are struggling with anxiety or insecurities.
