The Kissing Booth by Beth Reekles follows the story of Elle Evans, a high school student and a young relatable girl who finds herself face-to-face with a dilemma when she ends up kissing her crush, Noah Flynn, at a school fundraiser kissing booth. Things get even more complicated because Noah is the older brother of her best friend, Lee, which threatens to upend their lifelong friendship.

From my perspective The Kissing Booth is a playful and engaging read / book that perfectly captures the rollercoaster of teenage emotions. The novel deals with themes of friendship, first loves, and the challenges that come with navigating the unwritten rules of high school relationships. Its straightforward narrative and relatable characters make it an entertaining story that's easy to get lost in. I rate this book a 9 and i couldn't keep my eyes off of the book.

I one hundred percent recommend this book, this book would be a good pick for those who enjoy light, romantic comedies set in a high school backdrop. Readers who like fast-paced narratives with a blend of drama and romance will likely find "The Kissing Booth" to be an enjoyable escape. I honestly can't stress enough about how much I loved this book I'm a sucker for romance and this book made me believe in love. It's a fun read for anyone who loves stories about the complexities of young love and the value of true friendship.
